Garrison Letters, III p 366.

Garrison wrote to Samuel G. Howe on Nov. 12, 1855 to decline the invitation to speak because Howe had also invited pro-slavery speakers.

When ~~did~~ was Howe's ~~paper~~ a reply printed in The Liberator? It was probably printed at the end of November (or early Dec at the latest).

Dear Anne:

I want your advice. When W.L.G. wrote his good letter to Howe and his Committee though I rejoiced that he did it, yet the reasoning did not so fully convince me as to make me follow his example. I could not quite see and feel his argument.

I have just read Howe's insolent letter in the Liberator, and it is borne in upon me to write to Stone thus.

Sir: I have just read Howe's letter to W.L.G.. Please strike my name from your list of lecturers.

Yours respectfully,

W.P.

But wishing to do nothing that looks silly or petulant I wait to ask how such a course strikes you.

Howe had no right to such an insolent letter to Garrison -- and has no right to expect any friend of Garrison's to appear with him on a platform after he has published such impudence.

Yours,

Wendell Phillips.
